

The National Energy Foundation (UK) was set up in 1990 to help UK citizens address these through practical advice and help in installing energy saving measures and implementing appropriate renewable energy sources. Being "green" has never had a higher profile. So by using energy more wisely and looking at alternative energy sources, it is possible not only to do the individual bit for the environment, but also to give a competitive edge to the companies, saving money too!

Project author or developer:
The National Energy Foundation

Where:
GB / Royaume-Uni / Grand Londres

Website:
www.nef.org.uk

