

School under construction

A temporary school to question the education practices and involving pupils, their parents, teachers, retired-teachers and old people visible

Project author or developer:
Eva Kotatkova

Where:
CZ / Czech Republic / Prague-East District

Website:
www.huntkastner.com/en/artists/kotatkova/index.html

Eva Kotatkova's work often questions subjects such as social control and manipulation. She bases her projects on a detailed study of concrete social situation or phenomenon and through observations as well as active collaboration with participants. The project School under construction attempts to search and propose new possibilities and forms of and its role in the society using its potential to connect people of different age and profession and spread not only knowledge but also ability of mutual understanding, a sensitive approach to the surrounding and need of collaboration. It questions the system of formal education, prevailing in most of the countries and its impact on the development of the individual and his/her ability to find a place in the society. School is understood not only as a physical space where children are collectively taught by adults, accepting and following their rules, communication patterns etc.

