

Transition Sydney

Regional support hub for Transition Towns initiatives in the greater Sydney Metropolitan region New South Wales, Australia

Transition Sydney was founded in 2008 to follow the Transition Towns action model for building resilient, connected local communities and economies. Its aim and function is to promote the start-up of new local initiatives and give these initiatives ongoing support in many ways. We create networking opportunities for existing groups, ongoing promotion of the presence of local transition groups and advocacy for the transition model as a way of moving to greater local self-reliance in the face of faltering global economic systems, depleting resources and climate change impacts.

Bringing the head, heart & hands of communities together to tackle peak oil & climate change

Project author or developer:
Transition Sydney

Where:
AU / Australia / Sydney

Website:
www.transitionsydney.org.au/

