We discover the word economy to be misrepresenting, and it actually has nothing to do with job creation, a matter of fact always job creation come before the economy, this means that good job creation means improving economy, but good economy does not mean relative job creation. Now we know everybody knows good economy means there will be good job creation, but actually good economy only means investors are making money, and they might spend money but his is not a guarantee, also bad economy means investors are not making money, so what they do they start laying off people worrying about loosing their businesses. Our project is planning to exclude job creation investors, economists, and politicians, so this people to people job creation.
