

Talent Garden

A network of coworking spaces for talented people longing to share skills and knowledge

Project author or developer:
Gianfausto Ferrari, Davide Dattoli

Where:
IT / Italy / Milan

Website:
www.talentgarden.it/it/#!/home

Commonly defined as Coworking, the Talent Garden model aims not only at sharing work-spaces but, through a series of events and initiatives, at collecting everything growing at a local level to be developed between people who have similar interests, boosting the collaboration and creating a real “PASSION WORKING SPACE”. Talent Garden is a network of local Campus open 24 hours a day, which can host up to 445 talents all over Italy. The offices want to recreate an idealistic garden where, among eco-friendly furniture and cardboard desks are chaise-longues, big screens with Xbox and even a table football, because the working environment must be complemented with elements boosting sharing and creativity. A place which can host different yet complementary skills like web and communication, in which the people living inside are selected by the same community who lives the place and chooses with whom to share the spaces. It’s essential to get these talents to collaborate, because if put in a place, they can create something rampant and unique.

