The "Tortoioli farm" was born from the "calling" for the country that has characterized the history of the family Tortoioli generations; the passion for cooking did the rest, and so the old and historic house of the grandparents became an agritourism. The uniqueness of the Umbrian countryside and the proximity to the city of Assisi in particular, strong reasons of tourist attraction, has motivated the choice of integrating receptive to agricultural activity. Our guests, in most cases, have very little experience of life in the country and even less agricultural work or production methods or the collection of eggs in the henhouse: here they have the opportunity to learn about this world. In this context, was born the idea to insert some real training courses dedicated especially for children, they can enjoy the unique experience of direct contact with nature and animals.
