

Network for Libertarian Education

of anti-authoritarian and libertarian education

The fundamental purpose of the “Network for Libertarian Education” is to promote knowledge, reflection and diffusion of content and concrete experiences of anti-authoritarian and libertarian education through concrete actions and initiatives. The group that gave birth to this network is made up of people with different educational and professional careers. Some deal with education at work (they are teachers, school administrators, educators, etc.), others have decided to participate because they are interested to know and think about a different way of educating (parents, students, ...). The network wants to offer a space and a time for discussion, experimentation and training to people who come from cultural (and political) different experiences. Those who are working in the network share a search path around the idea of non-authoritarian education that puts children in the foreground. Via Bottenigo 209, Marghera 30175 Mestre (VE)
