

An organisation that supports and offers stability to a group of projects working with the natural environment and provides access to educational and practical experience.

Stanmer Organics was formed in 1997 as a co-operative consortium. Its primary function is to support member groups whose projects promote health, well-being, education and greener more sustainable lifestyles.

Our member groups include eco-builders, green wood-workers, artists, horticulturalists and food producers who supply organic food to the local community.
