

The JAK Members Bank

A cooperative bank in Sweden

The JAK Members Bank (Sweden), or JAK Medlemsbank, is a cooperative, member-owned financial institution based in Skövde, Sweden, and based on a concept that arose in Denmark in 1931. JAK is an acronym for Jord Arbete Kapital in Swedish or Land Labour Capital, the factors of production in classical economics. A membership of approximately 38,000 (as of November 2011) dictates the Bank's policies and direction. JAK banking employs the "Saving Points" system: members accumulate Saving Points during saving periods and use them when applying for a loan.
